The burden of regulation

The burden of regulation continues to rise inexorably, with 2010 seeing the introduction of a new registration system for UK healthcare and the potential for further requirements resulting from a change in government. In addition, new pressures are being generated through increased demands from commissioners to demonstrate quality of service.

Are you finding that:

- the need to comply with external requirements is disrupting your ability to run an effective service?
- you are having trouble winning commitment from the front line to the compliance agenda?
- you operate disparate systems for managing policies and procedures, compliance evidence, risk, health and safety, medical devices, information assets, training records, clinical audits, and project management?
- your huge body of compliance evidence is scattered across multiple network folders owned by different departments, each with their own compliance reporting systems?
- your policies, procedures and protocols are only developed for compliance purposes rather than driving the organisation forward?
- your compliance system is designed to serve your regulator's agenda, not yours?
- you need convincing that your current systems for providing assurance will really prevent a Mid Staffs scenario at your Trust?
- you are not confident that you have the systems in place to demonstrate quality to the commissioners of healthcare?

If you have answered Yes to any of these questions, you should consider Compliance Made Lean™.

Compliance Made Lean™

Compliance Made Lean™ is a combination of software from 3E and consultancy from our partners designed to bring lean principles to the business process of compliance itself. In a constrained financial climate, Compliance Made Lean™ addresses the new quality agenda by:

- removing the waste from compliance
- automatically servicing multiple stakeholders from a single evidence portfolio
- putting the policy framework at the heart of compliance
- transforming the way Trusts are governed to deliver improved quality

Enabled by the CIRIS® online platform for governance, risk and compliance, Compliance Made Lean™ provides:

- access to the largest continuously maintained repository of regulations in UK Healthcare
- a system for building and maintaining a single online evidence repository that can be automatically cross catalogued with the regulations repository
- a comprehensive system for the commissioning, development, dissemination, auditing and version control of policies, procedures and protocols
- an integrated project and risk management system to deliver continuous improvement

Compliance Made Lean™ will make your compliance process so scalable that even if the regulatory burden were multiplied tenfold, your organisation would still be able to cope.

About 3E

We are 3E Europe Ltd, a software company founded in 1995 and based in Cambridge, UK.

Our mission is to advance the practice of continuous improvement with innovative use of information technology. Our CIRIS® web-based service enables organisations in highly regulated industries or services to manage their corporate objectives, compliance and risk as a single business management system.

CIRIS® for Radiology, launched in 2000 in collaboration with the Royal College of Radiologists and the College of Radiographers with support from the Department of Health, was the first solution in the UK to address the clinical governance agenda.

In 2005 3E introduced CIRIS® Corporate, the first service on the market to provide a solution for Standards for Better Health.

The latest generation, CIRIS® for Healthcare, brings together CIRIS® for Radiology and CIRIS® Corporate versions to provide what is the most advanced solution for continuous improvement in UK healthcare.
